

WISHING TREE RESORT, KHON KAEN IS NOW OPEN AFTER FLOOD CLOSURE!

The Wishing Tree Resort, Khon Kaen is proud to announce that it has reopened its doors on 3rd January 2011, following its closure in November 2010 for renovation works after flash Floods.

The winner of Thailand Boutique awards 2010 for outstanding award of Nature & Environment, Northeastern Region, is glad to start welcoming guests back to the resort. With the exception of the swimming pool due to be ready by April 2011, most of its facilities are back to their full swing of operations, however, in a precautionary effort to protect the river banks which were washed away during the floods, the resort will still be undergoing some works for another three months. Disturbance will however be kept to a minimal level so guests can still enjoy the charms of this peaceful riverside woodland habitat.
